

Recognition Matters.

Do you know an outstanding woman who deserves more recognition for her achievements?

There are so many exceptional women in our lives whose contributions enrich their communities and Australian society as a whole. You know one. We all do.

However, only 30% of nominations for Australian Honours, our country's highest award, are for women.

We want to change that.

We're making it easier for everyday Victorians to recognise their achievements by nominating them for Australian Honours.

Our simple nomination toolkit includes tips, advice and a draft of the nomination form, as well as images and information you can use to help share the message.
